Dr. Hager to Speak At Charter Day

Brown, Williams and Cobb Honored

Dr. Walter E. Hager, president of Wilson Teachers College (D.C.), will be the principal speaker at Charter Day ceremonies commemorating the 88th anniversary of the founding of Howard University Wednesday, March 2nd, at 10:30 a.m. The program will be held in Rankin Memorial Chapel, Sixth Street and Howard Place, northwest.

At the exercises three Howard alumni will receive medallions for post-graduate achievement. They are Dr. Russell W. Brown, of Tuskegee, Ala.; James A. Cobb, of Washington; and Dr. John D. Williams, of Manassas, Va. The 1955 Alumni Achievement Award recipients will speak at the Charter Day banquet in the Baldwin Hall dining room at 8:00 p.m.

Dr. Hager, who is a native of Bellwood, Neb., has been president of Wilson since 1941. Prior to heading the District of Columbia school he served as a public school teacher in Pender, Neb., a professor at the University of Nebraska, supervisor of schools in Adams and Cozad, Neb., and secretary and associate director of student personnel at Columbia University's Teachers College. He holds the Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Nebraska, and the Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy degrees from Columbia.

Dr. Hager first attracted national attention in 1950 when he became the first ranking District public school official to advocate public school integration. In his annual report to the superintendent of schools, Dr. Hager called for immediate action to end segregation in the two teachers colleges, terming it "the logical and eminently desirable next step in the organization of teachers colleges."

In the report he urged members of the board of education and school officials to take steps immediately in order that the action could be completed in five years. Present plans call for the merger of Wilson, formerly white, and Miner Teachers College, formerly Negro, in September.

Active in many national education organizations, Dr. Hager presently holds high positions in three such groups. He is secretary of the American Council on Education, chairman of the Council on Cooperation in Teacher Education, and vice-chairman and member of the executive committee of the National Conference for Cooperation in Health Education. Past offices held by him include presidencies of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, Eastern States Association of Professional Schools for Teachers, and Interstate Teacher Education Conference.

This year's achievement award winners bring the number of alumni who have received the citation since the practice was started in 1943 to 38.

Dr. Brown, who is a 1926 graduate of the College of Liberal Arts, will be cited for his work in the field of education. A native of Gary, La., he is director of the George Washington Carver Foundation at Tuskegee Institute. In 1951, he received the Alumni Merit Award at Iowa State College, where he had earned his Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

Mr. Cobb, an 1899 graduate of the School of Law, receives the award for his work in the field of law. He also received the Master of Laws degree at Howard in 1900, and was admitted to practice in Washington the following year. From 1926 to 1936, he served as judge of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia.

Dr. Williams, a 1914 graduate of the College of Medicine, will be cited for outstanding work in the field of medicine. He is a native of Manassas, Va. where he has practiced for the past 39 years.

Considered one of Virginia's foremost "country doctors," Dr. Williams has a practice community of some 240 square miles of rural territory in Prince William, Fairfax, and Fauquier Counties. An unusual feature of this Negro physician's practice in a southern community is that approximately 50 per cent of his patients are white.

This year's Charter Day exercises will be sponsored by the Classes of '85, '95, '05, '15, '25, '35, '45, and '55. Dr. James W. Parker, Sr., of Red Bank, N. J., a 1915 graduate of the College of Medicine and a member of the board of trustees at Howard, is serving as Charter Day committee chairman.

Tickets for the morning exercises and the banquet are available at the Office of Public Relations at the University. Reservations may be made through 5:00 p.m. Monday, February 28th, by calling DUpon 7-6100, Ext. 572.

Kappa Sigma Near Top At Johns Hopkins

Johns Hopkins University was the scene of strenuous intellectual competition as its fifth annual debate tournament got underway February 4. Twenty-four schools sent their best debaters to the two-day tournament, for more was at stake than a first place ribbon or a beautifully printed certificate. The coveted three foot rotating trophy and a smaller replica were the prize for first place.

Howard's Kappa Sigma Debating Society sent veteran debater James Gipson and its most promising first year debater Henry Smith to the two-man tournament.

Tournaments follow the policy which tends to create the most suspense. Decisions are never announced until the end of the tournament. However, the Hopkins Tournament attempts

Howard Trustees Retire, Rehire Dr. Johnson as President

On January 25th the Board of Trustees of Howard University voted to retire Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of the University for the past twenty-nine years, on June 30, 1955 in accordance with University tenure regulations, and to reappoint him for a period of five years, beginning July 1, 1955.

University regulations state that all employees must retire on reaching the age of sixty-five. President Johnson, who was born at Paris, Tenn. in 1890, reached his 65th birthday on January 12th.

Dr. Johnson, who is credited with having transformed Howard University from the chaos of second-rate and loosely joined departments into a great university, was appointed president of the University in 1926. He has spent the past twenty-nine years lifting Howard University from the bogs of prejudice and poverty. His activities are reassuring. Early in his administration the Twenty Year Plan, a program of educational and physical development was adopted, increased appropriations from the United States Government and private philanthropy was secured. During the years he has headed Howard there have been many new academic buildings, new dormitories, new laboratories, the teaching staff has been more than doubled, teachers' salaries increased, teachers' tenure and security advanced; scholarly publications have been contributed by the faculty, academic standards have been raised to the point where all of the University's ten schools and colleges have become accredited institutions.

Dr. Johnson has received many degrees both academic and honorary. He also received the Spingarn Medal and is known to many as a great pulpit orator.

On March 1, 1941, the 74th Annual Charter Day of Howard University, the students, faculty, employees, alumni and trustees of the University presented him with a testimonial, paying tribute to his 15 years of service there. In it they cited the achievements of this academic educator and clergyman who is the first Negro president of the largest Negro University in the world.

match strength against strength which makes estimates of success in previous debates somewhat easier.

On Friday, Howard met Georgetown, Loyola, and Bridgewater. When the schedule was made for the fourth round, Howard's opponent was Dickinson. Although it was impossible to be certain of the results in the three previous rounds, it was certain that Howard was in the running. The suspicion was soon confirmed. Howard met Wilkes in the next round. Howard gave Wilkes its first and only defeat, which placed Howard against Princeton in the last round. Princeton won the debate.

Princeton met Wilkes in the run-off round. Both had 5-1 records. Wilkes won the debate and first place, Princeton received the second place trophy, with the defending champion, Boston University, ranking third. Boston University had a 4-2 record as did Howard, Fordham, Seton Hall, University of Pennsylvania, Temple, and George Washington. When win-loss ties for place exist, points are the determining factor. On this basis, Howard ranked seventh among the twenty-four participating teams.

Dr. O. T. Smallwood, coach of debate at Howard, accompanied the team and served as one of the tournament judges.

Choir Performs

'Carmina Burana'

Under the adroit direction of Dr. Warner Lawson, the Howard University Choir with the National Symphony Orchestra rendered a magnificent performance at Constitution Hall on Wednesday, the 19th of January.

The 117 voice choir was jointly featured with the National Symphony Orchestra and soloists Lawrence Winters, Adele Addison and Leslie Chabay, all of whom were directed by Dr. Lawson. Dr. Lawson served as guest conductor of the Orchestra and rendered an excellent performance himself.

The captivating performance of the choir left the usually hostile Washington critic with only enough breath to utter one word—Superb! At the close of the two hour program, 4,000 music lovers rose to their feet, as one, to exemplify their sincere approval.

The program consisted of Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary," Verdi's "Te Deum," "Elegie," by Clarence Cameron White, and "Carmina Burana" by Carl Orff. The first three selections were warmly received, but it took "Carmina Burana" to bring the throng of music lovers to their feet. The Orff work has been performed only twice in this country. It featured Baritone Winters, Soprano Addison and Tenor Chabay as soloists.

"Carmina Burana" is a setting of 24 Latin, French, and German folksongs of the 13th century in which there are songs of love and of loneliness, of summer and of happiness, and songs of fame and misfortune. Each of these songs was given a warmth that scathed and comforted, and sent tremors of emotion through each and every member of the audience.

This was an unforgettable performance that will remain indelible upon the minds of the men and women that witnessed it.

Alphas Again Offer

Advanced Scholarship

Again this year, a $200 Advanced Study Scholarship is being offered to graduating seniors in the colleges of Liberal Arts, Music, Engineering and Architecture, and Pharmacy who plan to attend a graduate or professional school next year. Presenting the scholarship for the third straight year are the brothers of Omicron Lambda Alpha Chapter, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, whose members are all enrolled in some graduate or professional school in the District of Columbia. By offering this scholarship, they hope to encourage young persons about to graduate from college to go on to more advanced study.

Any student currently enrolled in one of the colleges mentioned above who has at least a 2.5 average.

About That Doctorate

Rumor has it that the University will consider the granting of the Ph.D. degree. As we understand it, all that will be necessary is that the Board of Trustees vote the degree be offered. We earnestly hope that such a vote is not given at this time.

It's not that we wouldn't like to see the University empowered to grant the degree. As Howardites we would be very proud and happy indeed. But, as Howardites also, we must be honest with ourselves and the rest of the academic community. Howard isn't ready, in our opinion, to grant the highest earned academic degree.

Unlike the Bachelor's or even Master's degrees, the Doctorate should and indeed must, involve a state of mind. The Doctor is a man at the pinnacle of academic endeavor, whose existence is geared to knowledge—not only of his major interest, as is the lamentable case with too many of our so-called educated men—but, as his title implies, of that intermeshing and interrelation of facts, ideas, and vague intuitions that is the whole of the universe and which is Philosophy. Naturally, a Ph.D. in Mathematics knows more about and is more deeply interested in the relation of that particular discipline to the universal whole than is the Ph.D. in, say, History. Nevertheless, that didn't prevent men like Whitehead, Russell and those of their ilk from putting out works that ranged from higher Mathematics to theories of Ideas and Religion. These men had earned their Doctorates and knew for what they stood.

Physically and theoretically, Howard University may be said to be very well equipped to offer the Doctorate in any of those fields of study in which it now grants the lower degrees. The physical plant of the University grows by leaps and bounds and many loud roars of power shovels. We certainly have enough room for candidates for the Doctorate degrees. The educational staff, with the few exceptions found in every institution, are alert, eager, well trained and intelligent. The quality of the departments in all the Physical Sciences; in History; in English; in Philosophy; is instructor-wise recognized to be of the finest. (We limit our discussion here to the Liberal Arts College.)

It is policy-wise that the University falls down. We are guilty of many little incongruities, some so small as to make the observer appear picayune, that fundamentally have no place in a Liberal Arts setup. Have you ever paid any notice to the academic processions on this campus? Beneath the satin and velvet robes, something is wrong. Except for Professor Huguley, who as Marshal of the University naturally comes first, there seems to be a peculiar inversion of position. The administrative staff marches first, followed by the instructional staff. Yet, this is an institution supposedly dedicated (and we students, also, too often forget) to the principle that the education of youth is of vital importance to warrant a physical plant requiring so many administrators. Someone, it seems, has slipped the cart before the means of locomotion.

In the Liberal Arts College, not one course is offered in music appreciation, recognition, or enjoyment. It takes training to enjoy music. Other universities with no schools of music offer the courses. We, who are uniquely equipped to offer them, do not. Only the most elementary courses in art are offered those who don't intend to dabble physically in it—and those students whose majors involve literature don't take these courses to fulfill a Humanities sequence. They take English 143 or Greek or Roman Classics. Courses essential to the sound foundations of majors in small departments aren't offered—despite the presence of a qualified instructor and two eager students—because the professor's appointment happens to be temporary, while courses of smaller size in a larger department are allowed because that particular instructor has tenure. Things like this have led some to wonder whether the University is qualified to grant the Bachelor's and Master's degrees—and they cause us to wonder about those Doctorates.

Poet's Corner

YOU LOVED ME TOO MUCH

You loved me too much.
You were always there when I did not call.
You tried to bind me down,
Wreath me to your routine little appointments for dinner,
Meetings in the browsing room,
And lingerances behind the Chapel.
I am a spirit ephemeral,
An effervescent elixir of life
Rising and falling upon touch;
Why did you love me so much?
You sought me.
Impossible!
For I must seek;
I must pursue,
Must be teased,
Must be mysteriously invited to taste the nectar;
For, if it is openly given me
In methodical spoonful
Like tonic prescribed as being unquestionably good for me,
I brush it aside, becoming ill at its sight.

I am like a child, intrigued by elusion;
And the steadfast star is not
Half as desirable as the escaping Comet which winks at me once,
Rushes teasingly to other parts,
Hides playfully in the depths of the sky
Beckoning me with soft, Siren-like sounds.
Why did you blurt out your impassioned fervors?
Your love gushed forth like a superfluous rain
Upon a satisfied flower.
I will never forgive you for loving me so much.

Howard Site for Law School Test

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Howard University has been designated as a testing center for the nation-wide administration of the Law School Admission Test, Dr. George M. Johnson, dean of the School of Law at Howard, announced today. The examination will be held Saturday, April 23rd.

Depending upon the law school to which they wish to apply, college seniors, juniors, and in some instances sophomores are eligible to take the tests. Dr. Johnson said that each applicant should find out as soon as possible from the law school of his interest whether he should take the examination.

Application blanks and a

Bulletin of Information describing registration procedures and containing sample test questions should be obtained four or five weeks in advance of the testing date, according to Dr. Johnson. This material may be obtained by writing The Admissions Office, Howard University, Washington 1, D. C. or The Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J. Applications should be mailed early enough to be received at the Princeton Office not later than 10 days prior to the testing date, Dr. Johnson advised.

Scores on the examination are used by many law schools along with previous scholastic records as a basis for admission, according to Dr. Johnson.

Bynum Bryant Wins R. C. A. Scholarship

Bynum Bryant, a sophomore electrical engineering student at Howard University, has been awarded an $800 scholarship by the Radio Corporation of America for the current academic year, along with 26 students in institutions of higher learning throughout the country.

The object of the RCA scholarship plan, according to its director, Dr. C. B. Jolliffe, is to encourage the training of scientific personnel for the growing requirements of the atomic age. Since the beginning of the program in 1945, more than 180 students have received grants. Bryant is the second Howard student to receive an RCA grant. Last year's recipient was Arthur Thorpe of Durham, North Caro-

Student Council Semester Report

Here is a report of YOUR Student Council for the first semester of this school year. As you know, the present council was not organized until November. So, this report covers action taken by the council from November to the present time.

During November, officers were elected, committees appointed and a program adopted. The program was published in the last issue of the HILLTOP. The Council submitted a petition to the administration for the extension of the Thanksgiving holiday. This petition was signed by 1,000 students in the university and received the approval of the administration. Money was allotted to send two representatives to the N.S.A. Conference held in Baltimore on November 27. Four students were also sent on a student exchange to Cornell University. The Council sponsored a homecoming reception and awarded a prize to the winning float. The Council also decided to have a pep rally before the Howard-Lincoln Game, however, plans did not go through.

In December the council cooperated in the purchasing of a campus Christmas tree. The HILLTOP budget was considered and the council had a discussion of the school newspaper with the editor and business manager of the paper. The council voted money out to pay for the first two issues of the paper; however the council has made it clear that other appropriations will not be received unless the staff gives some indication of putting the paper out on the designated dates. A conference was held with Dean Blackburn and other staff members concerning the use of the area in the Home Economics building as a student area. Jacqueline Sheppard is chairman of a committee which is to investigate the matter further and draw up a petition requesting its use by the students.

The budget was drawn up by the treasurer and was approved. Money was allotted to the Student Christian Association. Bill Santos reported that class presidents who have not called class meeting will be impeached.

Mag Picks Delany On College Board

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Howard University will be represented this year on MADEMOISELLE's national College Board by Leila V. Delany. She is one of the 700 students who competed with applicants from colleges all over the country to win a place on the Board, according to MADEMOISELLE.

As a College Board member, she will represent her campus and report to MADEMOISELLE on college life and the college scene. She will complete three assignments that will help her explore her interests and abilities in writing, editing, fashion, advertising or art, in competition for one of twenty Guest Editorships to be awarded by the magazine at the end of May.

The Guest Editors will be brought to New York for four weeks next June to help write, edit and illustrate MADEMOISELLE's 1955 August College Issue. Their transportation will be paid to and from New York and they will receive a regular salary for their work.

In addition to their work on the magazine, Guest Editors will interview outstanding men and women in their chosen fields to help clarify their career aims, will visit fashion showrooms, publishing houses and advertising agencies and will be MADEMOISELLE's guests in a round of party and theatre-going.

requesting the use of the snack bar area as a student area. This area would be open all day and have automatic service rather than counter service. The petition has not been circulated yet.

Activities Fees

Geraldine Baker, chairman. A request to raise student activities fees from $1.50 per semester to $5.00 is now in the process of going through various administrative offices. The increase is being asked in order to provide more funds for student changes, for the HILLTOP, for campus organizations, for more student activities. A form will be circulated to the students to find their feelings about the increase.

(Author of "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," etc.)

STUDYING MADE SIMPLE

I have passed my thirty-fifth birthday, and my dewlaps droop and my transmission needs oil. More and more my eyes turn inward, reminiscing, sifting the past, browsing lovingly among my souvenirs, for at my time of life memories are all a man has.

And most precious are the memories of college. It still makes my pulses quicken and my old glands leap to life just to think of it. Ah, I was something then! "Swiftly" my friends used to call me, or "Rakehell" or "Candle-at-both-Ends" or "Devil Take the Hindmost." My phone was ringing all the time. "Come on, Devil-Take-the-Hindmost," a cohort would say, "let's pile into the old convertible and live up a storm. I know a place that serves all-bran after hours."

So it went—night after mad night, kicks upon kicks, sport that wrinkled care derides, laughter holding both his sides. "Come on, 'Candle-at-Both-Ends,'" my companions would plead, "sing us another two hundred verses of Sweet Violets."

"No, my companions," I would reply with a gentle but firm smile, "we must turn homeward, for the cock has long since crowed."

"'Twas not the cock," they would answer, laughing merrily. "'Twas Sam Leghorn doing his imitation of a chicken!"

And, sure enough, 'twas. Crazy, madcap Sam Leghorn. How I miss his gaiety and wit! I never tired of hearing his imitation of a chicken, nor he of giving it. I wonder what's become of him. Last I heard he was working as a weathervane in Tacoma.

Oh, we were a wild and jolly gang in those days. There was Sam Leghorn with his poultry imitations. There was Mazda Watts who always wore a lampshade on her head. There was Freddie Como who stole a dean. There was Cap Queeg who always carried two steel marbles in his hand. There was Emily Hamp who gilded her house mother.

Yes, we were wild and jolly, and the wildest and jolliest was I... But not right away. I blush to admit that in my freshman year I was dull, stodgy, and normal. I finally corrected this loathesome condition, but for a while it was touch and go. And, dear reader—especially dear freshman reader—be warned: it can happen to you.

The makers of Philip Morris have bought this space so I can bring you a message each week. There is no more important message I can give you than the following: College can be beautiful. Don't louse it up with studying.

That was my mistake. At first, cowed by college, I studied so much that I turned into a dreary, blinking creature, subject to dry-mouth and fainting fits. For a year this dismal condition prevailed—but then I learned the real function of college. And what is that? I'll tell you what: to prepare you to face the realities of the world. And what do you need to face the realities of the world? I'll tell you what—poise, that's what you need. And how do you get poise? I'll tell you how: not by keeping your nose in a book, you may be sure!

Relax! Live! Enjoy!... That's how you get poise. Of course you have to study, but be poised about it. Don't be like some clods who spend every single night buried in a book. Not only are they not learning poise; they are also eroding their eyeballs. The truly poised student knows better than to make the whole semester hideous with studying. He knows that the night before the exam is plenty of time to study.

Yes, I've heard that lots of people have condemned cramming. But have you heard who these people are? They are the electric light and power interests, that's who! They want you to sit up late and study every night so you'll use more electricity and enrich their bulging coffers. Don't be a sucker!

Clearly, cramming is the only sensible way to study. But beware! Even cramming can be overdone. Take it easy. On the night before your exam, eat a hearty dinner. Then get a date and go out and eat another hearty dinner. Then go park someplace and light up a Philip Morris. Enjoy the peaceful pleasure it offers. Don't go home until you're good and relaxed.

Once at home, relax. Do not, however, fall asleep. This is too relaxed. To insure wakefulness, choose a chair that is not too comfortable. For example, take a chair with nails pointing up through the seat—or a chair in which somebody is already sitting.

Place several packs of Philip Morris within easy reach. Good mild tobacco helps you to relax, and that's what Philip Morris is—good mild tobacco. But Philip Morris is more than just good mild tobacco; it is also cigarette paper to keep the good mild tobacco from spilling all over the place.

Now you've got the uncomfortable chair and the Philip Morris. Now you need light. Use the lit end of your Philip Morris. Do not enrich the electric power interests.

Read your textbook in a slow, poised manner. Do not underline. It reduces the re-sale value of your book. Always keep your books in prime re-sale condition; you never know when you'll need getaway money.

As you read you will no doubt come across many things you don't understand. But don't panic. Relax. Play some records. Remove a callus. Go out and catch some night crawlers.

Relax. Be poised. Stay loose. And remember—if things really close in, you can always take up teaching.

erage (and at least a 3.0 average in his major subject) and who will have applied to enroll in a graduate or professional school of any university by March 15, 1955 is eligible for this award. Applications may be secured at the Office of the Dean of their respective college, and this is to be submitted with two letters of reference, the student's transcript, and a brief essay to the fraternity's Director of Advanced Study Scholarship by March 15, 1955.

The award will be made by the Scholarship Selection Committee consisting of six persons, three from the faculty or administration of Howard University, two members of Omicron Lambda Alpha Chapter, and a prominent citizen in the community. No applications will be accepted which mention the candidate's fraternal affiliations.

Winner of the 1954 Advanced Study Scholarship was Miss Aeolian Mayo of Washington, D. C., 1954 Liberal Arts Graduate who is now doing graduate work in Sociology in California. Miss Doris Heggans, also of Washington, D. C. and a 1953 Liberal Arts graduate won the scholarship in 1953 and did graduate work in the Graduate School, Howard University.

The principals in Howard University's recent career guidance conference on the medical profession and related fields are shown here as they evaluated the effectiveness of the program. The conference was one of a series of six being held at Howard this year to acquaint students with their aptitudes and employment opportunities in various fields. Here, Miss Perrelyn Peyton, a College of Liberal Arts sophomore from Little Rock, Arkansas, appraises the conference to the University officials who participated. They are (l to r): Dr. K. Albert Harden, associate professor of medicine, Dr. Roy C. Darlington, professor of pharmacy, Dr. Frederick P. Watts, the College of Liberal Arts Counselor; Mrs. Marian V. Coombs, director of student employment and graduate placement; Dr. Joseph L. Henry, associate professor of oral medicine; and Herman Branson, Professor of Physics.

H.P.'s Do Rainbow Up Brown

On February 16th through the 19th, the Howard Players, Howard's outstanding student drama group, produced for the first time a Broadway Musical, "Finian's Rainbow." Despite the limited facilities, almost ridiculous for such an extravaganza, they turned in their usual outstanding performance. The production featured an interracial cast, including students from other universities in the area. Directing the performance with his usual genius was Owen Dodson.

The story is set in an imaginary place called Rainbow Valley, Missitucky, and tells of the efforts of a group of sharecroppers to retain their land against the efforts of a race prejudiced, typical southern aristocratic Senator by the name of Billboard Rawkins to take it away from them.

Featured performers were James Butcher, Assistant Professor of Drama, as Finian; Ilene Johnson, freshman in the school of music, as Sharon; Victor Wright, sophomore in E & A, as Woody; Sterling Brown, Professor of English as Senator Rawkins; and James Brown, freshman in Liberal Arts as Og. Others in the cast included George Johnson, Herb Davis, Shirlee Patterson, Nigel Aton, Al Hill and Lucille Sayles.

The music was arranged by Mark Fax of the School of Music. Of special note were the beautiful renditions of "Necessity" by Shirlee Patterson and "The Begat," which was sung by the "Pilgrim Passion Singers," Al Hill, Nigel Aton, and George Johnson, capably assisted by assisted by Sterling Brown. The dancers were from Miss Jones' Studio, and consisted of an interracial group of high school and college students. Their skill in maneuvering over the small stage in Spaulding Hall is deserving of special mention.

The performance on the eighteenth was witnessed by one of the authors, Mr. Yarbrough, who praised the group for their work, singling out in particular the scene featuring "The Begat," calling it the best interpretation of all he had seen.

Because of the great public response, and to make some more money, the performance will be repeated on March 3rd, 4th, and 5th. The next production of the Players will be "Iphigenia in Aulis" by Euripides. It will be directed by Dr. Cook.

— FROM ALL OVER —

Hi there! You know, College life is really wonderful despite the many things that we find each day that are strictly complaint material. Often we think that our problems are unique. But, as one compares notes with other students (excluding those used in final exams) we find that the problems are, in a way, similar. For example, the author of the following poem must have had the same difficulty that each of us has faced as we pecked at those never-ending term papers.

My typist has gone on his holiday
My typist has gone on a spree,

"Ignorance times intelligence, divided by intellect, minus 'ponies,' plus cramming multiplied by 18 weeks equal frustration, less of mental balance, hostility, dirty teachers and cheating students on the final exams... Which determines the ignorance of students, authors, teachers, the educational system and society—but in reality it's a good thing as long as it makes sense. It's a rectangular affair, running from the book, through the brains of the student, from the teacher's lips, then right back where it came from—on paper as an 'exam,' the final curtain of the big comedy—silly, isn't it?"

Well, that's society also. It gives every person the opportunity to interpret what has been known for centuries and centuries—Good old competition has driven many of the best thinking fools to the nut house...."

Howard In Throes of Fund-Raising for Scholarships

Howard University launched a nation-wide fund-raising campaign for $250,000 beginning Tuesday, February 1st, it was announced by Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of the University. Funds raised during the drive, which will continue through June 15th, will be used for scholarship purposes. Otto McClarrin, director of public relations at Howard, will direct the campaign. This will be the first major appeal for funds by the University since 1944.

"Prior to 1944," Dr. Johnson said, "we were on our way to raise a substantial scholarship fund in the University through the gifts of alumni. Dr. A. J. Blackburn, who is now dean of students, was then our field agent. He set out to secure an average gift of $5.00 per alumnus, and before long had secured individual gifts ranging up to $5,000 for the endowment of a permanent scholarship and student loan fund."

"In 1948 we renewed our efforts to establish a direct relationship with alumni. We felt that our alumni were capable of building up a scholarship and loan fund of inspiring proportions," Dr. Johnson said. Our field agent, Mr. W. W. Blocker, was the leader of this effort, and he was just beginning to get an encouraging response from the alumni when he took sick and died in the field.

"Now we are about to begin again this important undertaking," Dr. Johnson continued, "and it is important beyond any words which we can say."

At Howard, where some $100,000 is spent annually for scholarships, only about $25,000 for this purpose is received through contributions. The remaining $75,000 is accrued by setting aside a portion of tuition fees for scholarship purposes.

"All over the university and college world this is considered to be an unsound method of producing scholarship funds," Dr. Johnson said. "Already the tuition funds constitute only a very small part of the total cost of maintaining the University, and it is everywhere considered desirable that all of these funds should go into the maintenance of the cost of the high quality of education, and that none of them should be taken away from this primary purpose for scholarship undertakings."

University officials estimate that some 10,000 alumni will be contacted during the four and one-half month campaign. As a result of this estimate the goal has been set at $250,000 or an average of $25 per alumnus.

"If we can raise this amount from the number of alumni contacted during this year's drive," Dr. Johnson said, "it will serve as an inspiration for all of our alumni who I am sure will increase this figure during the second year."

Dr. Johnson pointed out that although this year's campaign will be an effort by individual alumni, he hopes that Howard alumni groups throughout the country will support the effort by urging each alumnus in their area to contribute. The Howard president said, however, that he hopes the money will be raised by individual effort rather than by any form of collective undertaking, such as dances, dinners and bazaars, etc.

"What we wish to develop is the sense of personal responsibility on the part of each alumnus to help build up a great scholarship fund for his Alma Mater," he asserted.

In explaining the Howard alumnus' responsibility to his alma mater Dr. Johnson cited figures from the University's 1954 budget.

"Last year's total educational budget was $4,968,123," he said, "of this amount only $839,000 was received through student fees. The other $3,952,290 came from gifts, endowments, and federal appropriations, that is — came from other citizens of the United States who in one way or another gave their money to make it possible for Howard University students to have a first-class education."

"Broken down, this means that every student at the University last year paid just a little more than one-fifth the cost of his total education," the Howard president continued. "Nearly four-fifths of the cost was paid by other mature citizens out of their desire to see that our students receive a first-class education."

"These figures show clearly that the opinion held by many alumni that they have paid for their education in full while attending the University is by no means true," Dr. Johnson said.

Dr. Johnson also emphasized the importance of establishing an adequate student loan fund, saying that nearly 90 per cent of the University's students encounter some financial difficulty during their stay at Howard. He said that there are hundreds of brilliant students at Howard who would be able to make a real contribution to society if they could only be relieved of the anxiety created by pressing financial obligations.

"Surely most of our alumni remember these trying periods during their own college days," Dr. Johnson said, "and will be willing to help relieve today's students of this kind of anxiety."

Mr. McClarrin, who will head up the campaign, said that during the drive an alumnus will be able to contribute to the school or college of his choice. If no choice is specified, the gift will be distributed equally among the University's 16 schools and colleges.

"At the close of the campaign a bulletin will be published acknowledging the contributions made," the public relations director said. "Listed in this bulletin will be the names of each individual alumnus who makes a contribution, and the amount of the contribution."

Mr. McClarrin also expressed the hope that many alumni would contribute an amount in excess of the $25 average.

"We know that there are many young alumni who will find it difficult to contribute that amount," he asserted, "consequently, we are calling upon our older and more prosperous graduates to subscribe a sum substantially more than $25 in order that our quota may be reached."

According to Mr. McClarrin, an official receipt of the Treasurer of the University will be mailed to each alumnus verifying his contribution.

"It is a far-sighted act of patriotism on the part of able alumni to build up a scholarship fund which will guarantee promising and brilliant students at Howard University that they will not be deprived of their education for failure to secure a few dollars at a needy time," Mr. McClarrin concluded.

Law School Puts Out Journal

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A milestone in the 86-year history of the Howard University School of Law was reached today with the publication of the School's first law journal. The announcement was made by Dr. George M. Johnson, dean of the law school, who said that the journal will be published semi-annually, in January and June.

The Howard Law Journal features scholarly articles by outstanding members of the law profession and honor students at Howard. It is edited by Jeanus B. Parks, Jr., of 3340 Twenty-Second Street, southeast, a senior.

Contributors to the first edition of the journal include three faculty members from other law schools, a practicing attorney, and eight members of the journal's editorial staff.

The professionals are James H. Murphy, of the Syracuse University law faculty; Malcolm McDermott, of the Duke University law faculty; Warren A. Seavey, Bussey professor of law at Harvard University; and Milton M. Carrow, a practicing attorney in New York.

Professor Murphy, a former Bureau of Internal Revenue official, authors an article titled "The Survivorship Annuity: Estate Tax Kaleidoscope." In it he discusses the problems incident to the application of the Federal estate provisions of the 1954 Internal Revenue Code to the various types of annuities with survivorship features.

"Proof of Paternity and the Progress of Science," the article by Professor McDermott, is taken from a paper he read before the Fourth International Princeton, N. J., January 17—Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1956 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, it was announced today by Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges. These tests, required of applicants by almost every medical college throughout the country, will be given twice during the current calendar year. Candidates taking the May test, however, will be able to furnish scores to institutions in early fall, when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next entering class.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 7, 1955, or on Monday, October 31, 1955, at administrations to be held at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical

OFF THE BOARDS

By Armory Brunot

After going through a slump period during the Christmas Vacation, the Howard University Basketball Team has come back strongly winning 4 games in a row. In the process they have broken a C.I.A.A. record and possibly established another. If this type play had continued the Bisons would have made the C.I.A.A. Tournament.

What with Final Examinations approaching, the mysterious disappearance of Marty Tapscott, regulars working in the Post Office to earn tuition money, the basketballers dropped a series of hard fought games by close scores to Bluefield State, West Virginia; Virginia Union and Hampton. After getting these losses out of their system the Hart men took to the road again taking on and beating St. Paul Polytechnical, 108-104 in Virginia. The 108 points was the highest total ever scored by a C.I.A.A. team. Captain Tom Harris scored 45 points. This is believed to be a new individual scoring record. "Little Beno" also made 17 of 17 foul shots. This was a Howard University record. Going on to Shaw Howard racked up another win, 64-48. High scorers were Dickie Washington and Harold Eaton pouring in 21 and 20 points respectively.

Back home the team sent Delaware State Hornets back to Delaware with their stings extracted as they rolled on 89-71. The sren rival Lincoln Lions of Pennsylvania were gored by the Bisons as the Blue and White continued its meteoric rise. On the short end of the 91-68 score the Lions retreated to Pennsylvania to lick their wounds. This marked the second time this year that Howard topped Lincoln as we had defeated the Lions on their home grounds earlier in the season.

The strain finally proved too much for the predominantly Frosh team as they lost their last three games to Virginia State (this by one point), Morgan State, and Hampton. The overall season record was 11 wins and 11 losses. This is the best record H.U. has had in years.

The team if it returns intact may be a little harder to beat the next three years. Tom Harris is returning for another season. Who knows what the class of '59 will bring? Coach Hart feels confident that the Bisons are at last on the rise.

Harris Stars in Hoop Circuit

Although it is not a customary policy to single out the achievements of a particular individual performing on a team, it nevertheless becomes necessary at times to at least acknowledge the exploits of one who because of his exceptional performance merits such consideration.

Tom Harris, Captain of the Howard Basketball team, has distinguished himself in the past. Last season he averaged 25 points a game with a losing team. Yet he has not been content to rest on his laurels. This season he has averaged 22 points a game besides being amongst the leaders in assists. However, his most outstanding achievement thus far has been the scoring of 45 points in a single contest. Harris batted 1,000 from the foul line making 17 of 17. He made 14 field goals on a variety of shots ranging from sets of tricky lay-ups. The remarkable thing is "Little Bevo" is only 5 ft. 9 inches tall and is outplaying men who are from 5 to 10 inches taller than he is.

Walker, Marshall New Grid Captains

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Half-back John Walker and Center Randall Marshall have been elected co-captains of the 1955 Howard University football team, Thomas F. Johnson, football coach at Howard, announced today.

Walker, a 23-year old junior from Darby, Pa., is an art student in Howard's College of Liberal Arts. He was the Bisons' leading scorer and ground-gainer last year. The 5-foot-9, 165-pounder has been a regular on the Howard squad for the past two seasons.

Marshall, who is 21, is a graduate of Phelps High School in Washington, D. C. The 5-foot-10, 175-pounder has been the Bisons' starting center during his freshman and sophomore years. Currently a sophomore, he is enrolled in the School of Engineering & Architecture where he is majoring in architecture.

GRUNT and GROAN

Armory Brunot

This year the Howard University Wrestling team has a new coach. He is Leonard "Rock" Thomas, former C. I. A. A. 147 lb. champ and Ex-Howardite. The record of the grapplers to date seems to indicate that "Rock" is as good a coach as he was a wrestler.

Holdovers from last season are Bob Blaine, Bill Griffin, Bill Brown, Bill Ball and Winford Sparks. Amongst the new comers are men are Ronald Feaster, Al Smith, Linwood Hardamen, and Frank Elliot. The squad has pretty good balance and though there are a number of new men, the team is quite capable of finishing high in the C. I. A. A. standings.

Most likely to be champions in their divisions are Winford Sparks, Bill Ball and Tom Loman. Sparks has been a runner-up for the 135 lbs. crown in the past. However, he has matured to 147 lbs. and will seek top honors in the Division. Bill Ball, sometimes called the Strongest Man pound for pound on the campus, has always been near the top in 123 lbs. race. Ball is a great competitor, good showman, and very colorful performer. Tom Loman, better known as "Big T" has quite capably demonstrated his ability by pinning all his opponents in the average time of 50 seconds. Loman, a stellar tackle on the Football team, stands 6' 4" and weighs 271 lbs. stripped. He is unusually strong, having had some weight training, and is very agile for all his bulk.

Frank Davis, football center, is also a Golden Gloves Boxer. On the night of February 3rd Davis won his first boxing match by a decision. Less than 4 hours later he pinned his opponent in a match with Hampton Institute.

The team lost to Gaillardet, 28-10 its first match. They lost to Hampton Institute 26-13, as some improvement was shown. Virginia State was defeated 26-15 despite the forfeit of three matches.

Law School Journal

Congress of Comparative Law in Paris last year.

In an article titled "Undisclosed Principal; Unsettled Problems" Professor Seavey comments on legal problems in the field of agency. He also evaluates a recent opinion by Circuit Judge William H. Hastie, former dean of the Howard law school, in a case involving Pennsylvania law.

Mr. Carrow, a Harvard Law School graduate, writes on "Judicial Intervention to Restrain Pending and Threatened Administrative Action." His article, from the manuscript of a book currently being readied for publication, deals with the impact of judicial intervention, by way of injunction, on the administrative process.

Student contributors and their articles include:

1. John F. Middleton, of 1211 C Street, southeast—Liability of a tavern keeper for the death of a patron fatally injured after having become intoxicated from beverages dispensed by proprietor;

2. Wilbert L. Whitsett, of 534 Howell Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.—An analysis of the new insanity test in criminal cases, adopted by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, with respect to the use of psychiatric medical evidence;

3. Mrs. Harriet W. Batipps, of 604 Sumner Street, Media, Pa.—Liability of wholesale and retail dealers in meat products for the sale of porked infected with Trichinae parasites;

4. Hubert H. Bryant, of 1715 E. Mohawk Boulevard, Tulsa, Okla.—The jurisdiction of a state court over a foreign corporation which does not engage in business in that state but which entered into a contract with a resident of the state;

5. William R. Atkins, of 7122 Paxier Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.—On analysis of the "reasonable doubt" and "moral certainty" tests as basis for criminal conviction in cases grounded upon circumstantial evidence;

6. Charles W. Smith, of 1219 Willow Street, Norristown, Pa.—An evaluation of the effect of fraud on the constitutional right to effective counsel;

7. Albert T. Hamlin, of 125 E. South Street, Raleigh, N. C.—Construction and application of the discretionary function of Government under the Federal Tort Claims Act; and

8. Llewelyn W. Woolford, of 2319 Ivy Avenue, Baltimore, Md.—The effect of the Labor-Management Relations Act and the power of a state to enjoin picketing.

Paul L. Diggs, of 800 Hayes Street, Norfolk, Va., a member of the journal's editorial board, authors an editorial on "The Constitutionality of Miscegenation Statutes."

Other members of the journal staff include Kenneth Brown, of 3852 N. Gratz Street, Philadelphia, Pa.; and Carrous Robinson, of 110 Normal Street, High Point, N. C.

The purpose of the Howard Law Journal, according to Dean Johnson, is two-fold. Its objectives are (1) to train students in legal research, analysis, and expression, and (2) to serve the members of the legal profession and the public. The decision to publish a law journal was made in recognition of these objectives after thoughtful consideration of the many problems involved, he said.

According to Dean Johnson, faculty supervision of the journal will be kept at a minimum. The present faculty advisory staff is made up of Howard Jenkins, Jr., Charles W. Quick, and Herbert O. Reid, all associate professors of law.

Bison

Lois Young, chairman. Due to the fact that the staff has an insufficient number of working members and that many members are unqualified the committee is making the following suggestions for staff qualifications:

(1) All members with the exception of Freshmen must have completed English 2; (2) Persons finding it necessary to resign from the staff must do so, submitting a recommendation for someone to replace them, if they so desire, to the staff. The staff will appoint the new person; (3) Freshman Class representatives who are appointed by the steering committee will serve in this position for the entire year. If, however these persons have not served well, new representatives will be elected by the class when class elections are held. If the representatives have served well no other representatives will be elected; (4) Any members of the staff who have served one year may continue working on the staff if they so desire; (5) The editor must have served at least one year previously on the staff; (6) Of the senior representatives at least two must have worked one year previously; also the committee recommends a $.25 increase in the Bison fee per semester. This would mean that students would pay a total of $11.00 instead of the present $10.00 for the Bison. The actual cost of a Bison is $13.00.

Class Activation

Bill Santos, chairman. The Freshman class has been holding regular class meetings and has sponsored a dance which was very successful. The Sophomore class has not met this semester. The Junior class has had one meeting. The class plans to co-sponsor a Junior-Senior Prom with the senior class. This class had the following suggestions to make to the council: (1) Lower health fee, (2) Crown the Grid-Iron Queen at a dance the night before the game, (3) More free student social activities sponsored by the council. The senior class has been holding class meetings and covering class business.
